

2006 Earth Day Open Houses at Air Monitoring Stations

The New Hampshire Department of Environmental Services is hosting three open houses at air quality monitoring stations on or around Earth Day. See firsthand how New Hampshire measures outdoor air quality. Talk to air quality experts and learn how this information is used to protect our health and the environment. See the instruments used to collect and analyze air samples for various air pollutants. Learn how weather helps us forecast air pollution.

Wednesday, April 19	Manchester, NH Pearl Street Air Monitoring Station 10 a.m. – 1 p.m.
Thursday, April 20	Portsmouth, NH Pierce Island Air Monitoring Station 11 a.m. – 2 p.m.
Saturday, April 22	Concord, NH Hazen Drive Air Monitoring Station 10 a.m. – 2 p.m. (in conjunction with Discover Wild NH Days)
